▲ FRENCH ACCENT IN CHICAGO A Francophile at heart, designer Amy Kartheiser's love for all things related to France is what drew her to her Normandy-style refuge in the village of Wilmette. After adding her own touches to the interiors à la French designer Joseph Dirand—and balancing the structure's older architecture with modern-day elements—Kartheiser fashioned her ideal setting reminiscent of a Parisian apartment. ▶ A TRADITIONAL 1937 GEORGIAN-STYLE AUSTIN ABODE WITH GLAM INTERIORS

Restoring a historic residence back to its original glory was the challenge that architect Stephen Kubenka and builder Robert Howard were tasked with for this Austin home. After executing a careful restoration to keep the integrity of the Georgian-style architecture intact, the design team then created an up-to-date space for a family of five. Read more about the renovation and see the chic interiors by designer Jan Showers in the complete slideshow. luxesource.com/austin-georgian-style

◀ A CONTEMPORARY CORONA DEL MAR HOME WITH A BOHEMIAN VIBE

Nestled seaside in the scenic hamlet of Corona del Mar sits a charming house with a classic yet relaxed bohemian feel—a look that was seamlessly achieved by designer Brooke Wagner. With the use of warm rustic woods and subtle pattern mixed with rich textures and pops of color, beach living never looked so chic. Check out the full tour of this stylish abode at luxesource.com/corona-del-mar-home.
