WHY BEVOLO?

Designers from across the country choose Bevolo Gas & Electric Lights to meet the varied needs of their clients. Inside or out; traditional or modern; casual or sophisticated—Bevolo is their light fixture of choice. And it's easy to see why. From the company's commitment to customization, quality and beauty, to continuity, efficiency and longevity, Bevolo delivers old-world craftsmanship with new-world capabilities.

MEET NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE-BASED DESIGNER JONATHAN SAVAGE, OF SAVAGE INTERIOR DESIGN, AND LEARN HOW, WHY, WHEN AND WHERE HE USES BEVOLO PRODUCTS.

Why Bevolo?

Savage: I have always admired their wide range of lighting options. Whether designing a carriage house or a country estate, I always have options that work.

Which of Bevolo's products is a go-to for you and why?

Savage: Our go-to lantern is the Governor. It's not only a classic design and historically correct, but adds a touch of modernity with its simple lines.

In what rooms and/or styles do you use Bevolo's products most in your designs?

Savage: I use mostly outdoor fixtures in a transitional style in many outdoor environments.

Give me an example of how the indoor/outdoor application of a Bevolo fixture impacted your design?

Savage: Recently, I was working on a remodel in a grand home and looked to Bevolo because they offer the largest outdoor gas lanterns on the market. The result was a balanced front facade that made a huge impact.

The most inspiring or inventive use of Bevolo fixtures in one of your designs?

Savage: The industrial lighting we recently used in a carriage house in the 12South neighborhood of Nashville. Each entrance had a fixture above that not only illuminated the space, but also made for an interesting facade.

"I design to bring a sense of style, yet sophistication—both of which are captured in Bevolo's products."
