Rain rolls right off the steep pitch of this permeable thatched roof.

A Poolhouse Built for the Breeze

An unusual structure provides all the entertainment—and natural AC—one family could need. By Hadley Keller

HERE IN NORTH CAROLINA, WHERE SUMMERS are muggy and brutally hot, most residents strictly pass the time in air-conditioned interiors. Not the Bing family. “We love the peace of being outside,” says mother of two Candy Bing. After architect Ruard Veltman built the family’s dream home, complete with a pool, she and her husband, Darren, felt the surrounding area was missing something. “After the pool, it just ended,” she explains. Plus, “the kids were tromping through the house with wet feet. So we started
