

Bevolo Gas & Electric Lights

Steeped in familial and regional traditions, the French Quarter-based Bevolo Gas & Electric Lights creates old-world artisanal lighting products reborn for contemporary living. With an unwavering integrity to materials and respect for handcraftsmanship, the legendary firm is recognized for its distinctive copper lights. "Being born in the French Quarter gives you a sense of history and the innate responsibility toward preservation. Our lights are a compilation of historical design, from the first gas streetlights in London to the array of styles encompassing every state in the U.S.," shares third-generation owner Drew Bevolo.

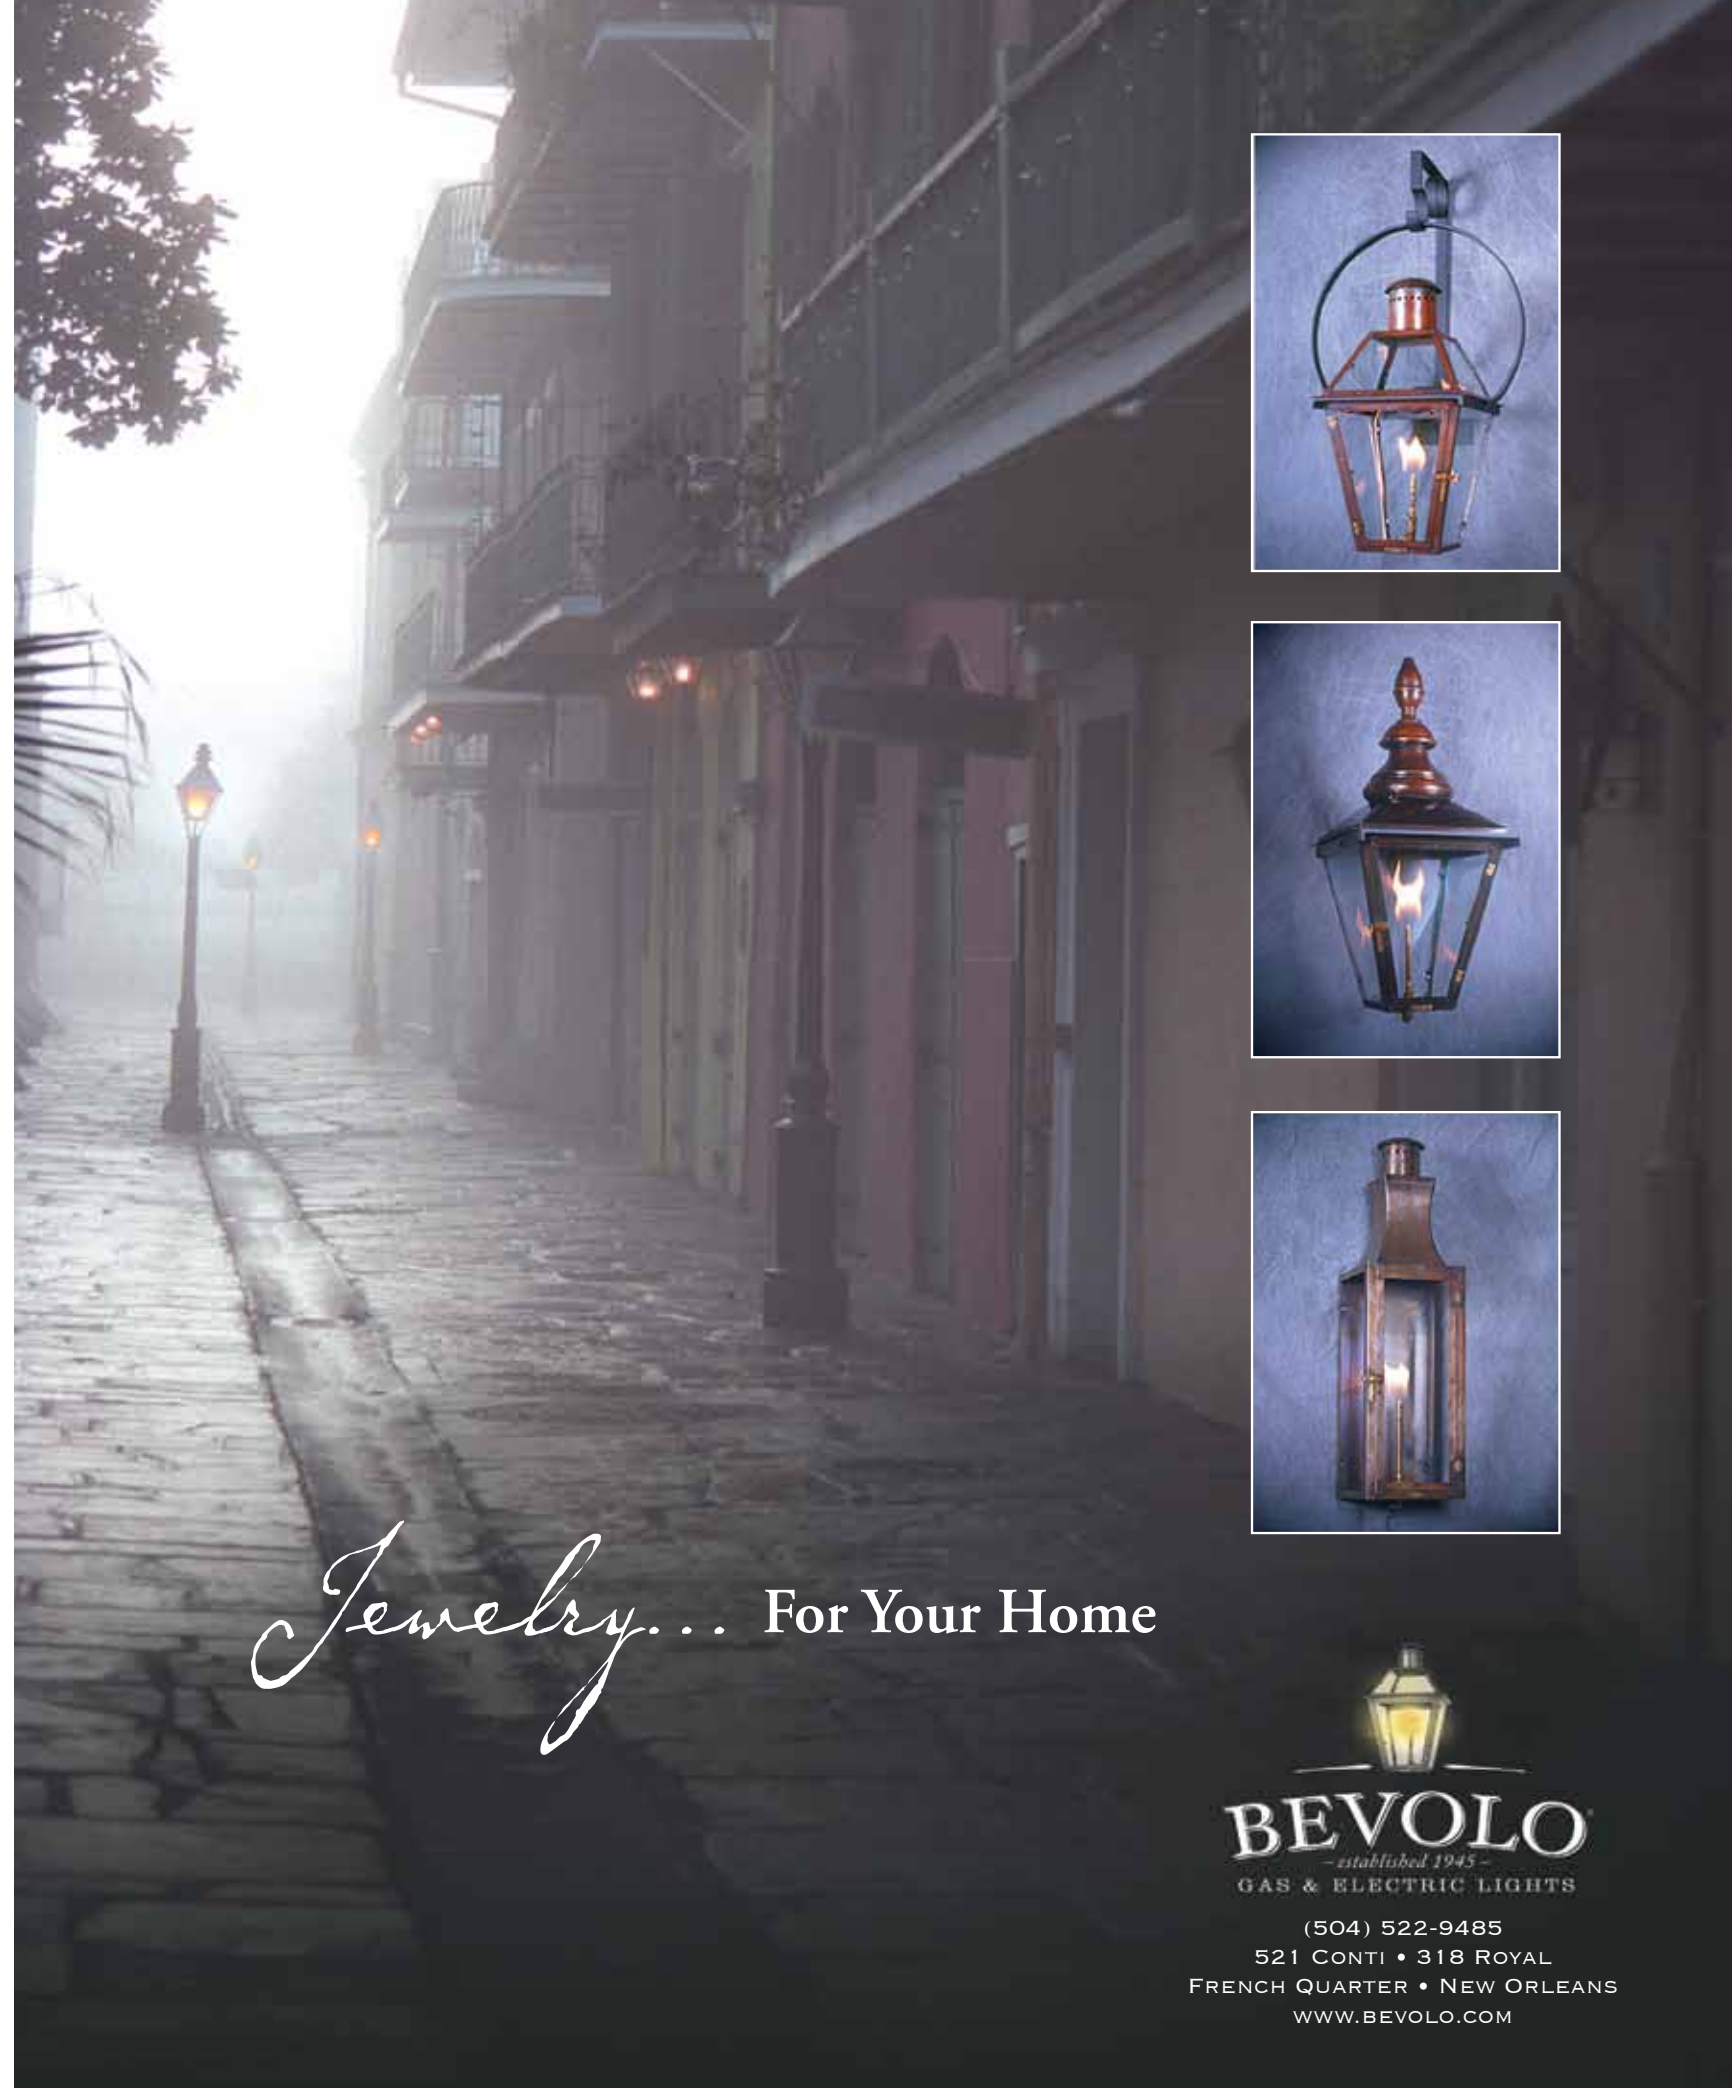

"The promise of LED is a 20-year bulb, with minimal depletion in performance and 1/20th of the current energy consumption of an incandescent bulb."

THE ART OF LONGEVITY

Made of pure, hand-riveted copper, the projected lifespan of a handcrafted Bevolo light fixture is 300 years. "Bevolo's lights are made with gas burners that last 50-plus years, with bulbs that last up to 20 years," says Bevolo. "We make fixtures that not only are operationally the most efficient (gas burner and LED bulbs), but never having to change a fixture on your home is truly remarkable."
